HISTORY:

The City Federation of Women's Organizations (CFWO) was founded in 1910 by the Ithaca Woman's Club, the Political Study Group (now the League of Women Voters) and the Women's Christian Temperance Union (now defunct), believing that they could accomplish more by working together. The CFWO was incorporated in 1920 and later purchased the property on the corner of Seneca and Cayuga Streets in downtown Ithaca. The original house, and more modern building that later replaced it, were known as the Women's Community Building (WCB). Through the years member organizations (for many years totaling over sixty) enabled the CFWO to provide housing for women, community meeting space, and to serve as an incubator for numerous efforts enriching the lives of women and children in our community. The proceeds from the sale of the WCB in 2012 now fund an endowment to continue the CFWO mission through grants and scholarships.

The CFWO is managed by a Board of Directors which includes representatives from the CFWO Legacy Organizations and individuals representing the community.
